Did it Ever Occur to You To Analyze The Main, Underlying Purpose In The Life Of The Average Man

Why does he first seek knowledge and education. Why having attained these, does he push out into business? Why, having launched in business, does he bend all his energies and powers to pushing that business to the utmost limit of his capacity

Isn't it because in every man there is a consuming ambition to succeed in common with his fellow men? To bring himself by sheer force of his abilities to a secure position in life with an income or an accumulation of money that will enable him to gratify his desire for all the good things that fortune can bring?

IS IT NOT THAT DURING HIS VIGOROUS YEARS OF LABOR

Which may well be limited to 30 or 40 years, he may in that time store up enough food for the rest of his days?

Is it not that beside providing for himself in a selfish way, he is also making provision for his family or for those who may dependent on him or dear to him?

ARE NOT THESE IN THE MAIN THE OBJECTS THE AVERAGE MAN HAS IN MIND

that keep him busy day after day, week after week, year after year, pretty sure that if he lives his purpose will be accomplished. What is it that men fear most in such a scheme. Isn't it that something may come up in the long, long, trip to defeat the entire object and purpose of their lives—either premature death—or what is equally fatal—their total and permanent disability?

What is it that can measurably allay these fears and rob them of their terror? There is but one answer, but one known remedy, life insurance with disability benefit.

By Life Insurance He Accomplishes Immediately for his family or his dependents the objects for which he strives and which might come to pass if he lived out his expectation and had continuous health.

BUT WHO KNOWS THAT HE WILL LIVE

WHO KNOWS THAT HE WILL HAVE CONTINUOUS HEALTH?

And By Disability Benefits He May Accomplish

in part at least, what he set out to do for himself, by having, if totally and permanently disabled, the premium not only waived, but a tenth of the face of the policy paid to him as long as he lives, and in addition the full proceeds of the policy at death paid to his family or dependents, without deduction. Where else can he get such results? These two problems, DEATH and INCAPACITY, are the most serious problems that men have to face.

The money value therefore of a life should be capitalized for an amount equal to what the owner expects to accomplish if he lives to finish the task—a task that an hour, or day, or a minute may forever interrupt.
